

element on the page with the given name attribute instead of making a request to a URL.

Images

We create image elements in HTML using a self-closing image tag with the `src` attribute referring to the path to the image data.

<img src="http://appacademy.io/images/app-academy-logo.img" alt="ap

The `alt` attribute provides alternate text for the image which is used in image search rankings, speech-accessibility, and displayed when a user hovers over the image.
